Epilepsy Across the Spectrum: Promoting Health and...

In March 2012 the Institute of Medicine (IOM) released the report, Epilepsy Across The Spectrum: Promoting Health and Understanding. This report examined the public health dimensions of the epilepsies with a focus on the following four areas: public health surveillance and data collection and integration; population and public health research; health policy, health care, and human services; and education for providers, people with epilepsy and their families, and the public.

Research implications of the Institute of Medicine Report...

Seizures and epilepsy are seen in all groups of people around the world. Seizures may range from mild events without loss of awareness to major motor seizures with loss of awareness and severe uncontrollable movements of muscles (convulsions). Seizures are unpredictable, leading to legal limits on the ability of people with epilepsy to drive.
