It is possible that she represents an indigenous Madonna. However, the Virgin of Guadalupe in Extremadura, Spain, after whom Mexico's Guadalupe is named, is a black-skinned Madonna—a direct reference to Mary's beauty based on a passage from the Song of Songs: "I am black but beautiful." Black Madonnas were popular long before Guadalupe's appearance in Mexico, and so it is possible that her ashen skin situates her within this pre-existing tradition.
